Please select the degree of risk you are willing to take with the assets in this account

- Conservative I want to preserve my initial principal in this account, with minimal risk, even if that means this account does not generate significant income or returns and may not keep pace with inflation.
- Moderately Conservative I am willing to accept low risk to my initial principal, including low volatility, to seek a modest level of portfolio returns.
- Moderate I am willing to accept some risk to my initial principal and tolerate some volatility to seek higher returns, and understand I could lose a portion of the money invested.
- Moderately Aggressive I am willing to accept high risk to my initial principal, including high volatility, to seek high returns over time and understand I could lose a substantial amount of the money invested.
- ☒ Significant Risk* I am willing to accept maximum risk to my initial principal to aggressively seek maximum returns, and I understand I could lose most, or all, of the money invested.

 We consider day trading to be a high-risk trading strategy. Our clients must have a 'significant risk' tolerance to employ such a strategy. EXTENDED HOURS TRADING

You should consider the following points before engaging in trading outside of regular market hours.

Risk of Lower Liquidity. Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and sell securities. Generally, the more orders that are available in a market, the greater the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity it is easier for investors to buy or sell securities, and as a result investor are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities purchased or sold. There may be lower liquidity in extended hours trading as compared to regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all.

Risk of Higher Volatility. Volatility refers to the changes in price that securities undergo when trading. Generally, the higher the volatility of a security the greater its price swings. There may be greater volatility in extended hours trading in extended hours trading than in regular market hours. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or not at all, or you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading than you would during regular market hours.

Risk of Changing Prices. The prices of securities traded in extended hours trading may not reflect the prices either at the end of regular market hours or upon the opening the next morning. As a result, you may receive an inferior price in extended hours trading than you would during regular market hours.

Risk of Unlinked Markets. Depending on the extended hours trading system or the time of day, the prices displayed on a particular extended hour trading system may not reflect the prices in other concurrently operating extended hours trading systems dealing in the same securities. Accordingly, you may receive an inferior price in one extended hours trading system than you would in another extended hours trading system.

Risk of News Announcements. Normally, issuers make news announcements that may affect the price of their securities after regular market hours. Similarly, important financial information is frequently announced outside of regular market hours. In extended hours trading, these announcements may occur during trading, and if combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may cause an exaggerated and unsustainable effect on the price of a security.

Risk of Wider Spreads. The spread refers to the difference in price between what you can buy a security for and what you can sell it for. Lower liquidity and higher volatility in extended hours trading may result in wider than normal spreads for a particular security. Should you decide to engage in trading outside of normal market hours (9:30 AM to 4:00 PM Eastern Time), you understand the risks disclosed above and acknowledge the Firm and its affiliates are not responsible for losses sustained due to trading outside of normal market hours, including any inability to enter an order, cancel an order, execute a trade or close a position.

Your relationship with the Firm is based on trust and confidence. We recognize our obligation to keep information about you secure and confidential. It is important for you to know that we do not sell your information to anyone. We restrict access to non-public personal information about you to those representatives and employees who need to know that information to provide products or services to you. We also maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to guard your non-public personal information. This notice describes how we handle your financial information that we collect while conducting our business. We collect information about you (such as your name, address, social security number, assets and income) from our discussions with you, and from documents that you may deliver to us in the course of providing services to you. We may also disclose such information to FINRA, the Securities & Exchange Commission, or any other regulatory agencies that oversee our business activities.

PAYMENT FOR ORDER FLOW

The Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") requires all registered broker-dealers to disclose their policies regarding receipt of "payment for order flow." The Commission defines "payment for order flow" as "any monetary payments, services, property, or other benefits that result in remuneration, compensation, or consideration to a broker or dealer from any broker or dealer, national securities exchange, registered securities association, or exchange member in return for the routing of customer orders by such broker or dealer to any broker or dealer, national securities exchange, registered securities association, or exchange member in return for the routing of customer orders by such broker or dealer to any broker or dealer, national securities exchange, registered securities association, or exchange member for execution, including but not limited to research, clearance, custody, products or services, reciprocal agreements for the provision of order flow adjustment of a broker or dealer's unfavorable trading errors, effort to participate as underwriter in public offerings, stock loans or shared interest accrued thereon, discounts, rebates, or any other reductions of or credits against any fee to, or expense or other financial obligation of, the broker or dealer routing a customer order that exceeds that fee, expense or other financial obligation."

The Firm transacts business on the varying market venues and as such is subject to the standard schedule of transaction fees for broker-dealers of those Exchanges and ECN's. Those transaction fee schedules may include payment of rebates for certain order types. In the course of transacting business, the Firm may be the recipient of said rebates. The Firm's clients self-direct their orders to the respective market venues. The Firm may, nevertheless, receive benefits that fall within the above definition of "payment for order flow."

BUSINESS CONTINUITY PLAN SUMMARY

The Firm has developed a Business Continuity Plan on how we will respond to events that significantly disrupt our business. Since the timing and impact of disasters and disruptions is unpredictable, we will have to be flexible in responding to actual events as they occur. With that in mind, we are providing you with the following business continuity plan information.

Contacting Us- If after a significant business disruption you cannot contact us as you usually do at (201) 706-7157, you should call our toll free number (201) 706-7157 which will be routed to an office location that has not been disrupted. You may also go to our web sites www.guardiantrading.com or <http://www.velocityclearing.com/>

Our Business Continuity Plan- We plan to quickly recover and resume business operations after a significant business disruption and respond by safeguarding our employees and property, making a financial and operational assessment, protecting the firm's books and records, and allowing our customers to transact business. In short, our business continuity plan is designed to permit our firm to resume operations as quickly as possible, given the scope and severity of the significant business disruption. Our business continuity plan addresses: data backup and recovery; all mission critical systems; financial and operational assessments; alternative communications with customers, employees, and regulators; alternate physical location of employees; critical supplier, contractor, bank and counter-party impact; regulatory reporting; and assuring our customers prompt access to their funds and securities if we are unable to continue our business.

Varying Disruptions- Significant business disruptions can vary in their scope, such as only our firm, a single building housing our firm, the business district where our firm is located, the city where we are located, or the whole region. Within each of these areas, the severity of the disruption can also vary from minimal to severe. In a disruption to only our firm or a building housing our firm, we will transfer our operations to a local site when needed and expect to recover and resume business within 24 business hours. In a disruption affecting our business district, city, or region, we will transfer our operations to a site outside of the affected area and recover and resume business within 72 business hours. In either situation, we plan to continue in business, transfer operations to our clearing firm if necessary, and notify you through our web sites www.guardiantrading.com or <http://www.velocityclearing.com/> or our customer emergency number, (201) 706-7157. If the significant business disruption is so severe that it prevents us from remaining in business, we will assure our customer's prompt access to their funds and securities. If you would like more information on our business continuity plan or have questions, you can contact us at (201) 706-7157.

Day Trading Risk Disclosure Statement & Acknowledgements

You should consider the following points before engaging in a day-trading strategy. For purposes of this notice, a "day-trading strategy" means an overall trading strategy characterized by the regular transmission by a customer of intra-day orders to effect both purchase and sale transactions in the same security or securities.

Day trading can be extremely risky. Day trading generally is not appropriate for someone of limited resources and limited investment or trading experience and low risk tolerance. You should be prepared to lose all of the funds that you use for day trading. In particular, you should not fund day-trading activities with retirement savings, student loans, second mortgages, emergency funds, funds set aside for purposes such as education or home ownership, or funds required to meet your living expenses. Further, certain evidence indicates that an investment of less than $50,000 will significantly impair the ability of a day trader to make a profit. Of course, an investment of $50,000 or more will in no way guarantee success.

Be cautious of claims of large profits from day trading. You should be wary of advertisements or other statements that emphasize the potential for large profits in day trading. Day trading can also lead to large and immediate financial losses.

Day trading requires knowledge of securities markets. Day trading requires in-depth knowledge of the securities markets and trading techniques and strategies. In attempting to profit through day trading, you must compete with professional, licensed traders employed by securities firms. You should have appropriate experience before engaging in day trading.

Day trading requires knowledge of a firm's operations. You should be familiar with a securities firm's business practices, including the operation of the firm's order execution systems and procedures. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position quickly at a reasonable price. This can occur, for example, when the market for a stock suddenly drops, or if trading is halted due to recent news events or unusual trading activity. The more volatile a stock is, the greater the likelihood that problems may be encountered in executing a transaction. In addition to normal market risks, you may experience losses due to system failures.

Day trading will generate substantial commissions, even if the per trade cost is low. Day trading involves aggressive trading, and generally you will pay commissions on each trade. The total daily commissions that you pay on your trades will add to your losses or significantly reduce your earnings. For instance, assuming that a trade costs $16 and an average of 29 transactions are conducted per day, an investor would need to generate an annual profit of $111,360 just to cover commission expenses.

Day trading on margin or short selling may result in losses beyond your initial investment. When you day trade with funds borrowed from a firm or someone else, you can lose more than the funds you originally placed at risk. A decline in the value of the securities that are purchased may require you to provide additional funds to the firm to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities in your account. Short selling as part of your day-trading strategy also may lead to extraordinary losses, because you may have to purchase a stock at a very high price in order to cover a short position.

Minimum Equity Requirement

Pattern day trading rules requires that a pattern day trader have deposited in his or her account minimum equity of $25,000 on any day in which the customer day trades. The required minimum equity must be in the account prior to any day trading activities. If the customer meets the pattern day trading criteria and does not have the minimum equity in his or her account, the firm will issue an equity deficiency call and will only allow the entry of closing orders. This call is separate and distinct from the day trading margin call.

Day Trading Margin Calls

In the event a day trading customer exceeds his or her trading buying power, firms are required to issue a day trading margin call to pattern day traders that exceed their day trading buying power. Customers have five business days to deposit funds to meet this day trading margin call. The day trading account is restricted to day trading power of two times maintenance margin excess, beginning on the trading day after the day trading buying power is exceeded until the earlier of when the call is met or five business days. If the day trading margin call is not met by the fifth business day, the account must be further restricted to trading only on a cash basis for 90 days or until the call is met.

Two Day Holding Period Requirement

The rule requires that funds used to meet the day trading minimum equity requirement or to meet a day trading margin call must remain in the customer's account for two business days.

Potential Registration Requirements. Persons providing investment advice for others or managing securities accounts for others may need to register as either an "Investment Advisor" under the Investment Advisors Act of 1940 or as a "Broker" or "Dealer" under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such activities may also trigger state registration requirements.

Your Broker and Your Account. Velocity will be the broker on record and can receive compensation on the trades executed on your behalf. Your day trading account may have significant execution costs and Velocity may receive a large portion of trading commissions for this day trading strategy. Trading commissions can be significant as day trading is highly speculative and all investors who implement this type of trading strategy must have a high-risk tolerance. This account will be used for unsolicited trades only. Trade execution may vary from broker to broker in the same security on the same day. Other brokers may trade in the same security on the same day; execution times and prices can vary significantly.

Acknowledgments. You acknowledge that the systems, software, and information, and any third-party related goods and services provided under the terms of your account agreement are provided "as is", without warranty of any kind, express or implied, by Velocity. You agree that Velocity shall not be liable to any entity or person, for any trading losses, lost revenues, lost profits, loss of business or information, loss of use, loss of costs or other savings, or any direct, incidental, indirect, damages suffered, or costs or expenses incurred, by any entity or person, of any kind or nature, or from any cause whatsoever, arising out of or relating to the furnishing, performance, maintenance of, use of or inability to use any of the system, software, and information, or any third party related goods and services provided as part of the servicing of your account.

You further acknowledge that you are a sophisticated trader with full knowledge of various short selling, insider trading and market manipulations rules and regulations, including, but not limited to, SEC rules promulgated under Regulation M, Regulation SHO and Sections 9, 10 and 10b-5 of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934.

I understand the above statements in regards to opening a day trading account. By signing below, I agree to the terms and conditions of the account agreement and understand the disclosures and acknowledgements contained herein. I understand that Velocity may restrict my account at any time and I understand the risks involved in this speculative investment strategy. A margin account is required for all day trading accounts and I have read and understand the terms and conditions of the margin agreement.

Margin Disclosure Statement

Your brokerage firm is furnishing this document to you to provide some basic facts about purchasing securities on margin, and to alert you to the risks involved with trading securities in a margin account. Before trading stocks in a margin account, you should carefully review the margin agreement provided by your firm. Consult your firm regarding any questions or concerns you may have with your margin accounts.

When you purchase securities, you may pay for the securities in full or you may borrow part of the purchase price from your brokerage firm. If you choose to borrow funds from your firm, you will open a margin account with the firm. The securities purchased are the firm's collateral for the loan to you. If the securities in your account decline in value, so does the value of the collateral supporting your loan, and, as a result, the firm can take action, such as issue a margin call and/or sell securities or other assets in any of your accounts held with the member, in order to maintain the required equity in the account.

It is important that you fully understand the risks involved in trading securities on margin. These risks include the following:

- You can lose more funds than you deposit in the margin account.
A decline in the value of securities that are purchased on margin may require you to provide additional funds to the firm that has made the loan to avoid the forced sale of those securities or other securities or assets in your account(s).
- The firm can force the sale of securities or other assets in your account(s).
If the equity in your account falls below the maintenance margin requirements, or the firm's higher "house" requirements, the firm can sell the securities or other assets in any of your account held at the firm to cover the margin deficiency. You also will be responsible for any short fall in the account after such a sale.
- The firm can sell your securities or other assets without contacting you.
Some investors mistakenly believe that a firm must contact them for a margin call to be valid, and that the firm cannot liquidate securities or other assets in their accounts to meet the call unless the firm has contacted them first. This is not the case. Most firms will attempt to notify their customers of margin calls, but they are not required to do so. However, even if a firm has contacted a customer and provided a specific date by which the customer can meet a margin call, the firm can still take necessary steps to protect its financial interests, including immediately selling the securities without notice to the customer.
- You are not entitled to choose which securities or other assets in your account(s) are liquidated or sold to meet a margin call
Because the securities are collateral for the margin loan, the firm has the right to decide which security to sell in order to protect its interests.
- The firm can increase its "house" maintenance margin requirements at any time and is not required to provide you advance written notice.
These changes in firm policy often take effect immediately and may result in the issuance of a maintenance margin call. Your failure to satisfy the call may cause the member to liquidate or sell securities in your account(s).
- You are not entitled to an extension of time on a margin call.
While an extension of time to meet margin requirements may be available to customers under certain conditions, a customer does not have a right to the extension.

You are receiving this disclosure document because you are opening a day trading account with your broker. Day trading accounts require that your brokerage account be opened as a margin account. It is important that you read and understand the terms and conditions of a margin account. If there are aspects of the margin agreement, or of opening a margin account, that you do not understand, you should immediately contact your brokerage representative.

In the event you fail to make such a delivery in the time required, we are authorized to either borrow or buy back such securities as necessary to make delivery and settle the Transaction. Stock Locate Agreement

The purpose of this Stock Locate Agreement (the "Agreement") is to ensure that you understand and agree to the terms and conditions associated with selling securities short. Through Velocity Clearing LLC, a FINRA registered broker dealer, ("Broker") offers its clients the ability to enter short sale orders in securities that are not on the easy to borrow list ("HTB Stocks"). This Agreement is to be reviewed and executed in conjunction with the Firm's Margin Agreement, which is included in the new account document package. Should any conflicts arise, the terms and conditions of the Margin Agreement supersede this Agreement.

Locates

By entering into this Agreement, the Broker will grant you the ability to locate HTB Stocks. Your acceptance of a locate for a short sale order does not guarantee that the necessary shares will be delivered for settlement of your short sale transaction. Velocity Clearing LLC, at its sole discretion, may elect to buy in some or all of the shares necessary to cover your short position at any time, including on the trade date in which your short position was established, and at any time or date thereafter. By entering into a short position, you agree that you take on full financial and market risk, including the risk that you may incur losses as a result of the Broker buying in your short position. Please note that Velocity Clearing LLC, reserves the rights to request any amount of any security it deems necessary to be borrowed before your short sale order is entered (pre borrow) at any time. Any quantity of stock is subject to being closed out by the Broker, on trade date, starting at 3:45 PM Eastern Standard Time. On pre borrows, you will begin accruing short interest charges on trade date at a rate determined by the clearing firm.

HTB Fees

By entering into this Agreement, you acknowledge that you may incur significant fees by selling securities short in your account. When you accept a locate for a HTB Stock, you will be charged a locate fee based on the price per share quoted and the quantity of shares accepted ("Locate Fee"). The Locate Fee is charged the moment you accept a locate on a HTB Stock, even if you never enter an order to sell short the located security. If you hold a located HTB Stock overnight, you will incur an overnight fee ("Overnight Fee"). The Overnight Fee is in addition to the Locate Fee and is calculated as a product of the price of the initial Locate Fee multiplied by the amount of nights between trade date and settlement date. For example, if you locate an HTB Stock and the Locate Fee is $50, holding that stock overnight on a Monday will result in the initial $50 charge for the Locate Fee and, assuming a Wednesday settlement date, a $100 Overnight Fee ($50 times two nights between trade date and settlement date). This same formula creates a higher multiple when a weekend falls between trade date and settlement date. For example, the Overnight Fee for a locate obtained on Friday will typically be the Locate Fee multiplied by four (four nights between Friday trade date and Tuesday settlement date). The Locate Fee and Overnight Fee will be billed daily and will appear on your statement collectively as "HTB Fees." HTB Fees are completely separate from the short interest fees that the Velocity Clearing LLC, may charge your account for holding short positions overnight. The amount of the Locate Fee is determined by Velocity Clearing LLC, which is providing the locate. However, Velocity Clearing LLC, does participate in volume discounts when applicable.

Short Interest Fees

Velocity Clearing LLC, will charge you short interest fees that are separate and unrelated to the HTB Fees charged by Velocity Clearing LLC. Velocity Clearing LLC, calculates short interest, and the total charges are dependent upon various factors such as the size of your short position, the price of the underlying security, the number of days between settlement of the short sale transaction and settlement of the buy to cover transaction, and the short interest rate. The short interest rate is variable and may change from day to day without notice. Increases in the short interest rates may be extreme, especially when there is considerable volatility in a given security. Furthermore, Velocity Clearing LLC, does not give advanced notice when a short interest rate will be changing. You can get the short interest rate for a given symbol on a specific date by contacting Velocity Clearing LLC. However, the rate provided to you will only be applicable for that given date and may change the following day. By signing below, you acknowledge and agree to the terms and conditions described herein.

Addendum to Customer Agreement Net Trading

Gordon O. Mullings

Name –

Account # –

Orders received by Velocity or by downstream destinations can be executed on an Agency, riskless principal and/or Principal basis. Velocity may trade Principally on a Net Trading basis. Thus, Velocity may incur a profit (or sustain a loss) in its proprietary account as a result of such transactions. For orders traded on a net basis, clients will receive an execution at or better than Client's limit price and will typically not have to pay additional explicit commission or exchange fees.

For transitions effected on a net basis, the Firm may buy or sell at a price different than the orders not-held limit price and therefore Velocity will not typically charge explicit commissions or market center fees on that order other than a commission equivalent mark-up or mark-down. Orders will be filled at the NBBO or better consistent with the limit price and other characteristics of the market and the order. When trading on a net basis Velocity does not act as a market maker as defined under FINRA Rule 2124. However, the Firm at its sole discretion may require certain clients participating in Net Trading affirm acknowledgement of Net Trading on an order by order basis or by a separate letter of consent.

If a client is an institutional customer as defined in FINRA Rule 4512(c), a registered broker-dealer under Section 15(b) of the Exchange Act, or a foreign regulated broker-dealer executing US securities and settling with a US domiciled custodian bank, provided the client does not decline, it will be deemed by Velocity that approval has been given for the Firm to execute the client's orders on a net basis. If the client does not wish to have orders executed on a net basis, the client shall notify Velocity in writing to or to Velocity Clearing LLC, 1301 Route 36, Suite 1301, Hazlet, NJ 07730. All orders that are not transacted on a net basis may be subject to additional commission and pass thru charges.

By signing below, you acknowledge and agree to the terms and conditions described herein.
